

Statement from Dame Heather Rabbatts

Chair, TIME'S UP UK

As demonstrations continue here in the UK and as more are scheduled for the weekend ahead, we all have to find ways of making a difference and supporting Black Lives Matter. Yesterday John Boyega joined with many other protesters and made his voice heard, yes, “black lives have always mattered”.

The work doesn't stop today, this weekend, next week or next month. We must work every day to dismantle this system within our industry, our communities, and our society, challenging racism at every turn.
